Survey of >1200 AFT members

• AFT, New York Life Foundation, Tiller Inc, Hart Research Associates
• 92% reported grief is serious problem that deserves more attention in schools
• Most important barrier preventing teachers from providing support -- insufficient training and/or professional development
• 93% of classroom teachers never received bereavement training; 3% of schools/districts offer training
Loss is common in the lives of children

- Vast majority of children experience the death of a family member and/or friend by the time they complete high school
- 5% of children experience death of parent by 16
Children may not appear to be grieving

- Adults may communicate death is not discussed
- Children may
  - not yet understand what has happened or its implications
  - be overwhelmed by feelings
  - express grief indirectly through behavior or play
Often adults say nothing

- Adults are afraid to say the wrong thing, upset children, or make matters worse
- Saying nothing says a lot – it communicates that adults are unconcerned, uncaring, or unable to be of assistance
- Leaves young children confused, older children unsupported, and requires children of all ages to grieve alone
Being with someone in distress

- Do not try to “cheer up” survivors
- Do not encourage to be strong or cover emotions
- Express feelings and demonstrate empathy
- Avoid statements such as: “I know exactly what you are going through” (you can’t), “You must be angry” (don’t tell person how to feel), “Both my parents died when I was your age” (don’t compete for sympathy)
- Allow child/family to be upset and tolerate unpleasant affect, without trying to change it. Accept reactions while suspending judgment – intervene only when safety/health is concern
Children’s guilt

• Thought processes limited by:
  – Egocentrism
  – Limited understanding of causality
  – Magical thinking

• Results in guilt
  – Reassure children of lack of responsibility
Misconceptions & literal misinterpretations

- For young children, thought processes are concrete and literal
- Religious explanations can be shared, but should not be only explanation of death
After a loved one dies—
How children grieve and how parents and other adults can support them.
Provide advice on how to support child

• Funeral attendance
• Be aware of community resources and offer them to families
• Provide follow-up – remember that grieving is long-term
Helpful responses to a grief trigger

• Provide a safe space or an adult the student can talk to
• Set procedures for the student to obtain support
• Let the student call a parent or family member if necessary
• Provide permission and encouragement to see school nurse or counselor
• Offer private time with teacher to talk about feelings
Importance of professional self-care

• Recognize it is distressing to be with children who are in distress
• It’s critical staff find ways to have their own personal needs met and appreciate and address impact of supporting children who are grieving or traumatized
• Create a culture where:
  – it is ok to be upset
  – members normalize asking for help and model willingness to accept assistance
National Center for School Crisis and Bereavement

Initial Funding: September 11th Children’s Fund & National Philanthropic Trust;
Current support: New York Life Foundation

• Promote appreciation of role schools can serve to support students, staff, and families at times of crisis and loss
• Enhance training in professional education programs
• Serve as resource for information, training materials, consultation and technical assistance – provided at no charge to schools
