LPS PBIS History of Implementation

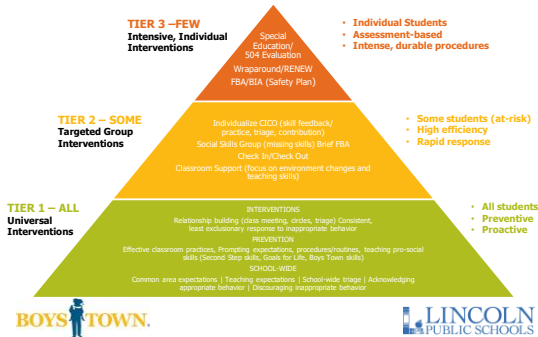

A group of representatives from Student Services, Special Education, Curriculum, Elementary and Secondary, Federal Programs and Continuous Improvement met throughout the year to determine how to implement in a large district.

- Implementation all middle schools and high schools 2013-2014
- Tier 2 and Tier 3 2014-2015 and 2015-2016
 - Implementation all elementary schools 2014-2015
 - Tier 2 and Tier 3 2015-2016 and 2016-2017

Need for additional support for students with intensive behavioral needs led us to Boys Town Specialized Classroom Management

Irving Middle School

"Four years ago, when principal Jason Shanahan came to Irving with fresh eyes, he realized that changes needed to be made to cut back out-of-classroom time for students with behavior issues. That first year, there were more than 4,600 out-of-class movements due to behavior. Shanahan began a process that culminated in a tremendous decline of behavior referrals and an increase in academic success. It includes The Learning Center as well as a change to the school's PBIS (positive behavioral interventions and supports) model by incorporating the Boys Town behavior model. According to numbers from last year, just under 3,000 students were referred, and the numbers are improving, even more, this year."
