In the thoroughly revised second edition of Start Where You Are, But Don't Stay There, H. Richard Milner IV addresses the knowledge and insights required on the part of teachers and school leaders to serve students of color. Milner focuses on a crucial issue in teacher training and professional education: the need to prepare teachers for the racially diverse student populations in their classrooms.

In this incisive and practical book, Milner provides educators with a crucial understanding of how to teach students of color who live in poverty. He looks carefully at the circumstances of these students' lives and describes how those circumstances profoundly affect their experiences within schools and classrooms. Milner proposes effective practices—at district and school levels, and in individual classrooms—for school leaders and teachers who are committed to creating the best educational opportunities for these students.

H. Richard Milner IV is Cornelius Vanderbilt Distinguished Professor of Education and a professor of education in the Department of Teaching and Learning at Peabody College of Vanderbilt University. A fellow of the American Educational Research Association (AERA), Milner delivered the AERA's fifteenth annual distinguished Brown lecture. He is the editor-in-chief of Urban Education and editor of Harvard Education Press's Race and Education series.
